“ Where to begin?

Stella Barbara Crivello was my dear friend and "second mother". I got to know her when her wonderful brother Phil, who was a beloved friend to me, introduced me to Stellie when I asked his advice regarding my then toddler son, Jack. He said, ask Stella. I called her and it was like I had known her all my life. From that day on, she was a permanent part of my life. I called her for advice, called her when I felt up or down, or just to laugh or tell a story. She was always willing to have a chat, talk about the old days with funny stories, or give me her opinion on just about everything, and always with a bit of humor.

She always ended a call by saying, "love you"! She made me feel like I was family and I consider her family. Stella was kind and thoughtful. She actually took the time to send my son Jack a few books from her own collection on Frank Sinatra because he was taking a class on Sinatra and wow, how she loved Frank!

Stella was one of the most wonderful people I've ever known and I feel so blessed to have had her touch my life the way she did. I will miss her warm and earthy wit, her great recipes, her motherly advice, her stories of Phil, her childhood and her life, and her tales of her own family, who she loved so much.

I hope that Andrew and Sally Ann know that she appreciated that they treated her like the queen that she was. I hope their families know the joy they all gave her and that they find comfort in knowing that she is with Sal and Tom and Phil now.

I will never forget Stellie. I will deeply miss her voice and her laugh, but she will always be in my heart and in my prayers.
