“ Mirjana (Marion) was born in Bgrade, Yugoslavia during the reconstruction period of WWI.

Her family was oriented in education. Her father was a professor at Belgrade University.

Marion's desire was to be a medical professional, but again, politics and war raised it's ugly head. The Germans and the Russians were on the move. Chaotic times prevailed for may years. Marion and her sister Olga, finally were able to escape to Sweden.

Marion then migrated to the United States.

This now allowed her to continue her education, and attain her goal of becoming a medical doctor.

Her perseverance and strength to accomplish this was an inspirate on to us who had the honor of knowing her and her family.

Rest in peace.

Love, your cousin Jack Huggins

“ Mirjana was a brilliant Doctor of medicine.

I owe my life to her.

After 3 years of horrible symptoms, and my local specialist telling me it was all in my head, I called Mirjana. I was very sick and very frustrated. She asked me several questions, and within 5 minutes, she was explaining to me what was going on! She told me to demand a specific test. I bypassed the specialist and went to my primary care physician. He had no hesitation and promptly ordered the test.

Within 15 minutes of a 4 hour procedure, they concluded I had a life-threatening issue, which required immediate admission to the hospital. After major surgery and 1 month in the hospital, I was released.

Mirjana was a brilliant, compassionate doctor and an amazing diagnostician.

Mirjana, her sister, Olga, Aunt Nelle their mother, and last but not least, Helena, Mirjana's daughter will always have a special place in my heart.

We were blessed to have her here on earth.

I know she has a special place in heaven.

Love always,
