“ My name is Jim Druker. I am 83 years old, living in New York. I grew up on LeJeune Road in Coral Gables where my next door neighbor and best friend was a boy named Ralph Nicosia. His parents came to the U.S. from Sicily. Ralph used to talk about his uncle who owned an orange juice company on the west coast of Florida. Shortly after we graduated from high school, a private plane came to Miami and took Ralph away to work for his uncle. He was a really nice kid, and I wished him the best. I am so sorry to hear of his death, but I am glad to hear that he had a good life.

“ I am so sorry to hear this sad news. I spent a lot of time with Ralph when I was a kid. Our families were once close and I thought he was such a great guy, very nice, generous, and always wanting to make others happy, a trait I have come to appreciate more over the years. My sincerest condolences to Anthony, Stephanie, and his family and friends.

“ Ralph was so instrumental in my life. He took me on my first mission trip with Italy for Christ and I am forever thankful. I will always cherish the hour of prayer we had alone in St. Peter's. I look forward to being with my friend one day again in the presence of the Lord. Much love to you Ralph! John Moore
