“ The sudden loss of our friend Scott came as a surprise to Ginger and me. What a friend if you where with Scott you played the best golf courses that where available, and never paid a penny.

I can remember telling Scott that I was taking vacation to the Homestead in Virginia, he said I make a call for you to Pro there and hell set you up to play the Cascade course just like that I was on the number one course in the area, Scott was like that.

He also love his country and we would spend time talking about how we need to get back to the core values of our youth growing up in Lansing, Illinois.

Sports nut to the core . I think he still is a White Sox fan!

We will miss my friend Scott God must have needed a good Yardage book for the many golf course that we will play in Heaven.
