“ I worked with Sharon at Hitchcock Publishing in Wheaton, Illinois. We lost touch a long time ago, but I've often thought about her and all the fun we had! She was a friend and mentor to me and could speak openly and honestly without hurting people's feelings. What a skill! She cared so very much about her sons and wanted their success and happiness. She helped me to become a stronger person and I'm sure she must have had that effect on many people.
